

Experiential Training

Building relationships and strong teams are a must to be successful. The Ropes Challenge Course and portable activities are designed to engage new and established teams.

Within organizations we talk about working better together but it's difficult to galvanize teams with just classroom training. We can talk about the importance of trust, communication, accountability, decision making and problem solving but until we are in a situation where those skills are put to the test, only then are we able to move the learning from our head to our body/heart. Learning by doing—experiential learning.

By facilitating in a controlled, safe environment we are able to:

- Structure activities to meet desired objectives
- Facilitate the experience in real-time to help individuals discover how they interact and react while under task
- Explore team behaviors that are impacting the group's ability to work together
- Link the learnings from the experience back to the workplace

CorQuest Inc. facilitates experiential sessions by using:

- Portable initiative activities
- Low ropes course structures
- High ropes course elements
- Climbing tower stations

"The ultimate experience in recognizing, battling and conquering both team and mental challenges through teamwork and attitude. Thanks, it was great!"

3M

"An excellent program to learn about others as well as to test your own willingness to co-operate and to share – a most fulfilling experience."

IG

"I loved it out there and would continue on a second day if possible! Every team that works closely together and relies on support physically and mentally – should go through this!"

DuPont

What would your organization/employees get out of an experiential training session?

- Build trust
- Strengthen relationships
- Enhance communication
- Stimulate problem solving & innovation
- Heighten awareness of individual tendencies, especially while under task
- Increase cooperation
- Push individual and the team's comfort zone
- Engage and have fun!

CorQuest Inc.

403-887-3616 | 1-800-239-0475

linda@corquest.ca

Bringing Out the BEST in People Since 1993